 SAFER WALKING Strategies to Consider: The most helpful things to do will depend on the individual's situation, their interests and what is available in the local community. Strategies include: social activities that help to verify a person at risk's need for walking... things to consider around the home environment to reduce the risk of a person being unprepared, and technology that can be introduced to aid location. There is an array of people and places you can connect with for getting help.
